2000 Annual Report / Lincoln Police Department

MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR

Citizens and Members of the City Council

We are fortunate to live in a city where the women and men of our police force are so dedicated. Through their efforts, we are much safer than many other cities our size.

A primary responsibility of government is to provide for the safety and security of the public. Lincoln's police officers accomplish this task with distinction. That is why continuing support for the police is a priority for my administration. As our population grows so too must the numbers of officers, and I am pleased we were able to add four officers this past year and six the previous year.

This annual report provides a variety of information about the Lincoln Police Department's activities, personnel and accomplishments during the year 2000. The move from the old police facility to the renovated Justice and Law Enforcement Center and the completion of the new Center Team Station at 27th and Holdrege streets were long-awaited major achievements. Having a modern and functional workplace is important to morale and enables the department to more effectively accomplish its mission.

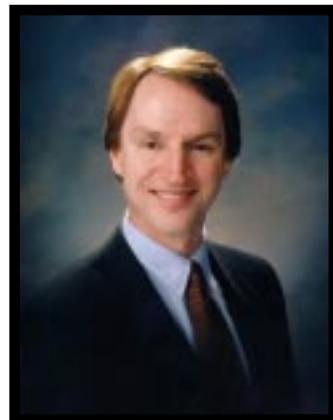

Community Based Team Policing continues to be successful in Lincoln, and we enjoy a close working relationship between officers and citizens. The strong community ties forged by the Lincoln Police Department stand in contrast to the law enforcement turmoil in many cities around the United States.

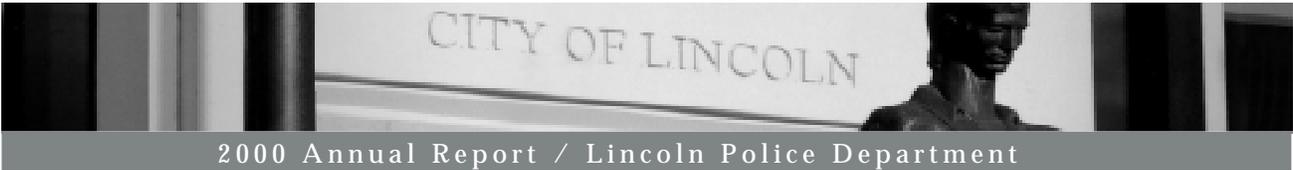

As a community, we must continue to support our Police Officers who patrol our streets and protect us from harm. As you look through this report, remember that Lincoln's finest are on duty 24 hours a day keeping our community safe. Let us thank them for their service.

Sincerely,

Don Wesely
Mayor of Lincoln

Mayor Wesley
City Council Members
Fellow citizens:

I am pleased to submit the annual report of the Lincoln Police Department for 2000. The year 2000 was certainly memorable. Worldwide concerns that computers and embedded systems relying on two-digit year formats would fail were a consistent theme in the news. When the calendar turned, however, the doomsday predictions failed to materialize. In Lincoln, a large crowd celebrated with an outdoor laser light show downtown, while a rather bored group of public officials, police, fire, and emergency personnel watched the clock tick uneventfully in the Emergency Operations Center.

Valentine's Day was moving day for the Lincoln Police Department. After 20 years in "temporary" quarters, we moved into the newly renovated Justice and Law Enforcement Center, at 575 South Tenth Street. On the same day, the department's Center Team moved into Lincoln's first full-service substation, at 27th and Holdrege Streets. Both facilities were met with surprise by our employees, accustomed to the cramped and dingy quarters at 233 South Tenth Street. In contrast, the new facilities are well appointed, functional, and attractive.

On the crime front, 2000 was a landmark year for drug cases. The explosion of methamphetamine as a drug of abuse was evident in a record number of arrests. Several major task force cases resulted in 58 Federal indictments involving street drugs valued in excess of $14 million. A slight decrease in violent crime was offset by a slight increase in property crime, resulting in an overall 5% increase in Part 1 offenses, driven almost entirely by thefts.

During 2000, Lincoln police officers completed over 200 problem-oriented policing projects, and seven citizen advisory councils further cemented the strong bonds between officers and the citizens of Lincoln. This report describes several examples of police-community collaboration, and is indicative of the quality of work performed every day by my colleagues—the men and women of the Lincoln Police Department. I am incredibly proud of their efforts, and honored to serve the City of Lincoln with them.

Thomas K. Casady, Chief of Police

EXEMPLARY PROGRAMS

Justice and Law Enforcement Center

In 1979 The Lincoln Police Department was moved temporarily from the County/City Building to the original Dorsey Laboratories Building (circa 1947) located at 233 So. 10th Street. At the time, it was expected that a new police station would be built within 3 years. Ultimately, the police department occupied this building for more than two decades. During that time very little money was allocated for refurbishing or renovation because of the temporary status. As a result, the building and furnishings had fallen into serious disrepair.

In 1996 The Public Building Commission began construction of a new Justice and Law Enforcement Center to be shared by the courts and law enforcement agencies. The Lincoln Police Department, Lancaster County Sheriff Department, and Emergency Communication Center were slated to occupy the first two floors of the renovated County/City Building at 575 So. 10th street.

The LPD move was slated for early February of 2000. A move of this magnitude would be a major undertaking, and elaborate preparations were required. The logistics were about more than just files and furnishings. Telecommunication and data systems critical to public safety, and core services such as the Records and Service Desk Units had to be moved without any interruption in 24 hour a day operations. To further compound matters the Center Team's new facility at 27th and Holdrege Streets--Lincoln's first true satellite police station--was scheduled to open at the same time.

On February 10th, 2000 the gears of relocation began to grind. The police trainees who were members of the department's January 2000 recruit class played a particularly critical role. The Education and Personnel Unit divided the class into six groups with a staff person assigned to each work group. The first units to be moved were The Service Desk and Records. Over the next seven days the entire department was transferred from a windowless, cramped, and decayed facility to a new, secure, 85,000 square foot, professional, and highly functional facility complete with new fixtures and furnishings. During the same week, the Center Team moved into a smaller but equally impressive facility.

One of the more daunting challenges was moving the department's Property and Evidence Unit. This move was by far the most involved since chain of evidence integrity had to be maintained on tens of thousands of items of evidence. This move alone required three full days. Overall, the transition was smoother than even the most optimistic predictions. There was no disruption in service to the citizens of Lincoln. Those needing information or service during this time received the same quality police attention.

The new facility had ample room for conferences, a spacious and functional briefing area, eleven interview rooms, four classrooms, and a physical fitness facility the equal of many health clubs. The positive aesthetics of the new buildings significantly improved the morale of departmental personnel. After many years in substandard facilities, employees can now enjoy a state-of-the-art facility with pride. Captain Terrance Sherrill, Sergeant Todd Beam, Richard Mackey, Clair Lindquist, Cheri Marti and the women and men of the January 2000 recruit class deserve special thanks for their role in bringing this facility to fruition.

Child Interview Team

Forensic interviews of children require special and specific methods of approach. Children, especially young children, have limitations which inhibit them from providing complete and accurate information. Current research underscores the need for a high degree of competency for professionals who have the responsibility of interviewing children. Children who are victims of crimes or who witness violent acts should be interviewed by professionals who are specially trained in conducting these types of interviews.

The Lincoln Police Department in conjunction with the Child Advocacy Center, the Lancaster County Sheriff's Office, the State Patrol and the State Department of Health and Human Services have established a child interview team. The team consists of 11 law enforcement officers and the director of the Child Advocacy Center. All team members have completed a 40 hour course in advanced child interviewing techniques. Team members meet regularly to critique their video taped interviews. These meetings also provide an avenue to review cutting edge information on case law as it applies to child abuse investigations. Team meeting also gives members an opportunity to stay abreast on the most recent research data on child interviewing. The Lincoln Police Department continues its commitment to excellence in the investigation of crimes and other incidents involving children.

Impacting High Risk Drinking

The Lincoln Police Department placed special emphasis on strategies to reduce high-risk drinking and underage drinking during 2000, in collaboration with NU Directions, a campus-community coalition to reduce high-risk drinking by college students. The coalition, funded by a five-year grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation to the University of Nebraska, is co-chaired by the chief of police and the vice chancellor for student affairs.

One of the major contributions of the police department to the coalition's efforts is a project to reduce high risk drinking parties, and the impact these have on neighborhoods. The department completed 37 problem oriented policing projects targeting high risk drinking during the year 2000. These projects included undercover stings at licensed liquor establishments, and several loud party details. During these "party patrols" a group of officers were assigned to respond to large parties where many violations were occurring, in order to take enforcement action that would be impractical for only one or two officers. Several of these projects involved cooperation by multiple police teams. Projects resulted in the following citations to violators:

Procuring alcohol for minors	13
Minor in possession	261
DWI & .02 violations	259
Consuming alcohol in public	80
Open containers	231

Overall, citations for minor in possession have increased over 240% in the past six years. During 2000, the department also worked with landlords in Lincoln's North Bottoms neighborhood to reduce particularly troublesome parties occurring at rental property. Officers and neighborhood residents have noticed a substantial change in the number and size of drinking parties in this neighborhood, although more work remains. LPD will continue to prioritize high-risk drinking in future years.

QUALITY SERVICE AUDIT

Since 1993 the Lincoln Police Department has been participating in a survey to gauge citizen satisfaction with the delivery of police services. The Quality Service Audit was developed in conjunction with Gallup, Inc. and it continues to be a valuable tool for both officers and administrators. Officers hired after 1991 are designated as participants in the survey and receive feedback from citizens on their performance.

The QSA is a telephone survey which is conducted by student interns and recruit officers. Contact is made with citizens who have had a recent police contact, whether they are a crime victim or the recipient of a traffic ticket. A sample of survey questions and the responses are listed below from the 4,501 surveys which were administered in 2000.

COMMUNITY POLICE TEAMS

NORTHWEST TEAM

Captain Steven Imes

The officers of the Northwest Team have made a concerted effort to respond to concerns brought to their attention by those living and working in the team area. Traffic problems and wild parties continue to head this list.

On several occasions projects were initiated by officers to impact underage drinking and large parties. The officers have been successful in reducing the number of complaints in the target areas. In addition to special details, progress was made in reducing party calls to a specific address with the cooperation of an apartment complex manager. When notified of the large number of disturbance calls the officers responded to in the complex, the manager took measures to stop the large parties. The cooperation by the manager resulted in a significant reduction of wild party calls to this location.

Traffic enforcement was also a major concern. Officers concentrated their efforts at locations identified by residents of the team. The most common complaint was speeding. Radar display boards, radar and traffic counts were used as tools to determine the nature of the problem and to educate drivers.

Burglaries and larcenies from auto continue to be a problem in areas of the Northwest Team. Officers conducted special crime prevention and enforcement projects in target areas to reduce the problem. Citizen cooperation through the use of crime prevention information is a major component in reducing these offenses.

CENTER TEAM

Captain Joy Citta

After two years of planning and construction the department's Team Station became operational February 14, 2000. The opening of the Team Station was the culmination of operating substations in neighborhoods while the concept of a fully operational station in the neighborhood became a reality. The substations maintained during the prior two years at 3024 R Street and then 2418 T Street were the first steps to the creation of the Center Team Station. Those substations gave officers and neighbors a chance to develop relationships and do creative problem solving before the station at 27th and Holdrege opened. Over 800 people toured the new station during a March open house. The service desk is open weekdays allowing access to reports, information and officers. A 24 hour phone in the vestibule gives immediate access to police dispatch and police officers for people needing assistance. The community room is used monthly by many neighborhood and community groups for meetings and training. Center Team officers continue to be assigned as liaisons to schools, community groups and neighborhood associations on the team.

Public Service Officers began the year by handling a special project to deal with the abandoned vehicles on Center Team. The team area had received a number of abandoned vehicle complaints from neighborhood associations and neighbors. These vehicles appeared to be abandoned on the street and in yards. Informational packets were left at each residence where an abandoned vehicle was located and then a series of citations and contact resulted in the voluntary removal of the vehicle by the owner or a tow by the police department. Center Team handled over 500 abandoned vehicle complaints during 2000.

Bike Patrol Officers joined UNL's NU Directions for Mall Stop in September. Students traveling from the campus to downtown were surprised to find officers handing out hot wings and pop at 14th And R Streets. Officers and NU Directions encouraged students to be responsible on their evenings out if alcohol consumption was in their plans. Each person stopping by the mall received hot wings from local businesses and a red plastic cup emblazoned with "When was the last time a cop and a bar bought you a drink?" The cup was good for soft drinks at 20 participating establishments in the downtown area.

NORTHEAST TEAM

Captain Doug Srb

The Northeast Team has enjoyed a long-standing history of using the Problem Oriented Policing concept to deal with a quandary of issues facing the community. The year 2000 was no different. A total of 35 projects were completed within the team. The projects addressed concerns relating to traffic, alcohol, parking, abandoned vehicles, larceny from autos, burglaries and wild parties. A few of the projects included:

A summer project in which officers identified violators who continued to drive during a license suspension. Officers developed strategies through selective enforcement and the use of the media to have a significant impact on this problem.

The close working relationships between officers and schools continued when School Resource Officer Mike Holm addressed a trash concern around Northeast High School. An action plan was developed which involved school staff, student council, and the Lincoln Action Program to remove litter from the neighborhood surrounding the school. The neighborhood residents have noticed an improvement and have been very complimentary of their efforts.

At the start of the school year officers worked in conjunction with an elementary school including the PTO, City Traffic Engineer, Star Tran, and Public Works to provide a safer environment around the school for pedestrians and vehicular traffic.

Officers responded to a fire call at 4112 Huntington Street in the early morning hours of December 31, 2000. The call involved a working fire with the report of people trapped inside the burning apartment building. Officers rescued four adults and nine children, five of which were infants, from the structure. Seven officers received recognition for their lifesaving efforts. These endeavors typify the resilience of the officers of the Northeast Team to work together and with the community to address problems through both traditional and nontraditional policing methods.

SOUTHWEST TEAM

Captain Bob Wilhelm

The events celebrating the millennium marked the kickoff of another active year on the Southwest Team. Our officers met the challenges of policing this diverse and growing area head-on with energy and ingenuity which they can be proud of.

Much of our officers time was spent dealing with those members of our community who are struggling with mental health problems. Unfortunately, we have to deal with a constant shortage of space in emergency mental health facilities for mental health patients in crisis. Our officers spent many hours sitting in area hospitals with mental health patients who posed a flight risk because the small number of secure beds at the crisis center were full.

Our officers dealt with other problems and issues on our team by working with community members and other governmental agencies to find lasting solutions. The team completed 35 Problem Oriented Policing Projects (P.O.P.S.) that dealt with issues ranging from larceny from automobiles to providing services to Spanish speaking residents. One of these projects involved a house with more than 20 people living in it. The activities at this location created an atmosphere that was very disruptive to the neighborhood. After a few months of attention by the neighbors, our officers, other city agencies, and several arrests, the occupants moved into other appropriate and legal living situations. This was an excellent example of how problems can be solved if we listen to the concerns of our neighbors and then work together to solve problems.

We ended the year, as always, by participating in our third shift annual holiday DWI detail. We are proud to report that the officers of Southwest Team 3rd shift made 65 arrests for driving while intoxicated, which surpassed all other teams. CHEERS!

SOUTHEAST TEAM

Captain Kim Koluch

There are 33 public and parochial schools located within the Southeast team, making schools a large part of the day-to-day activity for Southeast officers. Police services within the schools is supplemented by 5 School Resource Officers (SRO). The SRO is a specialized position within the Lincoln Police Department which assigns officers to a school or series of schools as their beat area. This specialized assignment allows the SRO an opportunity to develop relationships with students and staff and provides time for the SRO to focus on individual school needs. For example, Officer Charles Marti who is assigned as the SRO for East High School committed time to the “Bridge” school this past year. “Bridge” is a school within the school, developed to assist students who have had difficulty succeeding in a traditional classroom setting in attaining their degree by providing an atmosphere conducive to their learning style. Officer Marti assisted in “Bridge” by teaching classes and taking students on a tour of LPD.

Southeast Team officers completed 60 projects designed to solve policing problems during the past year, and with 382 miles of roadway on the team many of these projects were aimed at traffic concerns. The following are examples of outstanding performance and our commitment to making Southeast Lincoln a safer place to drive:

In December, Officer Pat Howell and Officer Brock Wagner led late shift officers in a special enforcement project to get drunk drivers off the streets. The Southeast Team made 60 arrests during the month and the success of the project brought awards recognition for both officers from Mothers Against Drunk Drivers.

On second shift, Officer Todd Groves coordinated a traffic project, which focused on safer driving during the holiday season, resulting in 371 citations. During the same time frame, Officer Pat Knopik conducted a project that put flyers in liquor establishments reminding drinkers to be “Safe & Sober” if they intended to drive.
